

Angela L. Sharpe, MG, is a Senior Director of Congressional and Federal Relations in Scientific Affairs Advocacy at the American Psychological Association (APA) and its companion organization, the American Psychological Association Services, where she advocates for psychological and behavioral science before Congress and federal agencies.

Before coming to APA, Angela briefly consulted with the Society for Research in Child Development (SRCD) and the Federation of Associations in Behavioral and Brain Sciences (FABBS). Angela spent more than two decades at the Consortium of Social Science Associations (COSSA), where she lobbied members of Congress and their staff on health and behavior research and represented COSSA to the executive branch agencies, particularly the National Institutes of Health (NIH). At COSSA, she also co-chaired two COSSA-led coalitions (Coalition to Promote Research and the Coalition for the Advancement of Health Through Behavioral and Social Sciences Research (aka the NIH Friends of BSSR) and led the Collaborative for Enhancing Diversity in Science.

Before COSSA, Angela was a legislative assistant to two members of Congress, the late Rep. Carrie P. Meek (D-FL) and the late Rep. R. Lawrence Coughlin (R-PA). Angela also worked for the Library of Congress' National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (NLS/BPH). She earned her Master's in Government from The Johns Hopkins University, a Bachelor of Science in Industrial Relations, and a Bachelor of Science in Psychology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.